Wolf-Garten – Battery-operated shears Finesse 30 R

Powerful Pound

LI-ION Power for Lawn Edging

The Finesse 30 R does not even weigh 500 grams, but the brand-new battery-operated shears by WOLF-Garten are causing a stir when it comes to lawn edge maintenance. In the truest sense of the word, it has never been so light-weight and effortless to work with such power and precision. The LI-ION power technology makes it possible.

The LI-ION Power Finesse 30 R, with which WOLF-Garten heralds a new era in cutting culture, offers countless new features. The light-weight equipment weighs just 450 grams with the attractive new design. This makes it especially interesting for the strong woman, who is increasingly taking on the responsibility for the private lawn. Whereas the man had to be around when it got strenuous before, the modern female gardener no longer balks at the thought. Anyone who has ever had to try it knows how arduous edge cutting is.

The Finesse 30 R is ergonomically optimised. The two-component handle is anti-slip thanks to the soft insert and fits well in the hand. The style and design are, as should be the case at WOLF-Garten, high quality. A real tool for hard gardening work.

The improved LI-ION Power batteries provide a high level of cutting capacity, with 1100 mAh at 3.6 Volt. The “new” batteries last a good 30 minutes in continuous operation. After just three and a half hours charging, they are completely charged and ready to go again. With an 80 millimetre cutting width, every lawn edge will quickly feel the heat. The operating elements are fitted in an easily accessible design on the soft handle, which fits pleasingly into the hand. One-handed operation is possible without any difficulties, even for small hands. The blades are, as is to be expected for WOLF-Garten quality shears, "Made in Germany". The quick knife change function works with a click, clean and easy. Greasy, oily fingers are a thing of the past. From January 2011, the 30 R can be purchased for around € 44.99. The charger is included in the price.
