All petrol engines can operate with the new spirit

WOLF-Garten Mower unproblematic with E10

For longer periods of storage, fuel stabiliser recommended

All petrol engines of WOLF-Garten lawnmowers can be operated without any problems using the new E10 fuels.

However, by mixing bioethanol, the ageing process is accelerated by vaporisation, among other things. Consequently, the fuel loses its ease of ignition over time. "For this reason, we recommend the use of a fuel stabiliser for longer periods of storage," says Michael Wicke, Manager of After Sales & Service Europe at WOLF-Garten holding company, MTD Products AG.

Since the beginning of 2011, mineral oil companies have been obligated by an EU directive to offer automotive gas containing 10% bioethanol at their petrol stations. This fuel has the trade name E 10. Further information about on this subject can be obtained from MTD Products AG in 66129 Saarbrücken.
