WOLF-Garten presents

Future-oriented cut and collect technology

Advanced cut and collect system

WOLF-Garten has designed the advanced cut and collect system especially for its handheld lawn mowers from the Ambition and BluePower series – mowing deck with new grass collecting architecture. This consists of two independent units: the cutting module on the mowing deck and the transport module to transport the grass cuttings in the collector bag.

The suction air flow ensures that the grass blades are raised in the cutting module (see blue arrows in the illustration). This ensures a wonderfully even cutting pattern. The transport module ensures optimized transport of cuttings and filling of the collector (see green arrows in the illustration). This gives the Ambition and BluePower mowers the impact you would expect from WOLF-Garten.

The advanced cut and collect technology is the result of many years of MTD development work for the WOLF-Garten brand. MTD has also developed new ideas for the efficiency of WOLF-Garten mowers and is expanding existing technologies.
