New from Cramer and already awarded

Professional power without exhaust fumes

World's first 82V cordless chainsaw with 2.5 kW output

Trees can now be powerfully cut without exhaust fumes in the face. The new Cramer 82V battery-powered chainsaw delivers 2.5 kW at a torque of 2.6 Nm and a chain speed of 24 m/s. It thus penetrates into the domain of gasoline-powered equipment for agriculture and forestry as well as green area maintenance and landscaping. The professional machine was honoured by the Plus X Award jury in the categories of high quality, ease of use, functionality and ergonomics.

The Cramer 82V cordless chain saw is predestined for tree care work. It is even the market leader in force, torque and cutting performance. The brushless motor is extremely efficient and maintenance-free and can be optimally dosed in its performance via the infinitely variable operating lever.

The new Cramer cordless chain saw is lightweight and has a well-balanced centre of gravity. It is extremely stable because the underside of the case is made of magnesium for long durability in professional use. The weight without battery is 4.8 kg including 33 cm sword and chain. These can be easily extended to 38 cm or 46 cm. The tank for the chain oil holds 250 ml.

Cramer recommends two batteries for use: either 2.2 kW or 2.5 kW. The Cramer 82V interchangeable battery system for professional garden tools is as simple as it is ingenious. The 82V batteries are
